Judge Baldwin's Airship Laws.

The consideration of the subject of the law that will be invoked to govern the airship, by Justice Baldwin of the Connecticut supreme court, brought forcibly to the minds of many the fact, heretofore unrealized, that the airship has really become a thing to be reckoned with.

Outside of those who have been specially interested in the development of some form of air locomotion, it is safe to say that a very large number of people have not really appreciated what stage of development the airship has reached. A few of those who were fortunate enough to witness the flight made at Rheims the past summer, and more, perhaps, who saw the flight of Wright over the Goddess of Liberty in New York and later over the city to Grant's tomb, can perhaps better realize what coming days may bring forth in aerial navigation.

Judge Baldwin, whose conservative conclusions can always be relied upon, put airships first off out of the class of possibilities and matriculated them in the class of realities. He then very simply dealt with the various questions that must sooner or later come up for consideration by the best legal minds of the country. Perhaps it would have been hardest to find an audience, outside of an audience composed of those particularly interested in aerial navigation, more familiar with the general topic of airships than the audience that Judge Baldwin addressed on Friday evening, and yet it would be safe to say that there were many among those there that evening to whom the statement that the subject of laws governing aerial navigation had been so carefully considered by the legal minds of our own country and European countries came with surprise. That the subject had already at this stage been so carefully covered was news to a large number. And yet final decisions have by no means been reached, as Judge Baldwin pointed out, especially governing the international side of the matter. But, to borrow from Connecticut's chief justice, the lawyers have had to evolve laws covering the railroads, the telephone, the telegraph and other new industries during the last century, and aerial law is only another new field to be tried.—New Haven Union.

A Tainted Breath Highly Disagreeable

A Quick and Permanent Relief for This Trouble at a Small Expense

There are many thousands of people who are the unfortunate possessors of offensive and obnoxious breath, and who have its origin in chronic nasal and throat catarrh, or an unhealthy condition of the stomach, or decay of the teeth, and when these persons realize they are the victims of such an undesirable possession, they frequently feel constrained to remain off to themselves the greater part of the time, because they understand only too well how disagreeable it must be to others with whom they come in contact. For it is an undeniable fact that people will comment on, and criticize the person whose breath is foul and offensive. Very frequently we hear the comment, "So-and-so is a most agreeable companion; his interest in the world with a large fund of information; is well-posted on world-history and the biographies of many celebrities; can talk fluently on current topics; is an accomplished musician, and a frequent contributor to the social gathering, except for the deplorable fact that his or her breath is so extremely offensive, that persons of refinement, good breeding and delicate sensibilities do not care to come into contact with them."

And very naturally, too, for an obnoxious breath taints the very atmosphere, and affects the persons surrounding the affected one in a way which is positively nauseating.

There is no longer any excuse for a person, however foul and offensive their breath may be, of inflicting its obnoxiousness upon the delicate nostrils and olfactory nerves of others.

Charcoal, the great absorbent, is the ideal remedy for conditions described herein, and in STUART'S CHARCOAL LOZENGES we have the very best form in which charcoal may be taken. These little lozenges absorb one hundred times their own volume in foul gases and tainted breaths, and besides deodorizing and purifying the breath and rendering it sweet and agreeable, they also act as cathartics and cleansers of the stomach and intestinal system, absorbing all offensive gases which may be present there, destroying disease germs, poisons and micro-organisms, and putting a stop to morbid processes as fermentation and decomposition in cases of chronic dyspepsia and intestinal indigestion.

Don't allow yourself to be kept out of company or your friends to be kept away from you by an offensive breath from any cause. Use Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, and you may rest assured that your trouble will be removed thoroughly and rapidly.

Purchase a box from your druggist for 25c and send us your name and address for free sample package. Address F. A. Stuart Company, 200 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Avoid Taking Cold

If people would only use ordinary precautions, the toll of disease and death directly traceable to neglected colds would not be nearly so heavy. Learn to breathe properly—don't expose the person needlessly to sudden changes of temperature, dampness and draughts. Get busy with the first sneeze and check a cold before it reaches the lungs. A simple remedy, the one that is highly recommended, is made by mixing two ounces of Glycerine, a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky. You can buy these in any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle. It is claimed by the Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, who prepare the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, that a teaspoonful of this mixture four times a day will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

ALL ABOUT THE ENUMERATORS

Director Durand's Statement Regarding Qualifications, Duties and Compensation.

Washington, Dec. 10.—U. S. Census Director Durand today issued a statement defining the qualifications, duties and compensation of census enumerators. He states that one of the duties imposed upon the supervisors by the census act is the designation of suitable persons to be employed, with the consent of the director of the census, as enumerators within their respective districts. It is further provided that such persons shall be selected solely with a view to fitness, and without reference to their political party affiliations.

The census act provides that the enumeration of population and agriculture shall begin on April 15, 1910, and that each enumerator shall complete the work required in his district within thirty days after the beginning of the census in each town, village or borough which had 8,000 inhabitants or more under the census of 1900.

It is desirable where possible that the enumerator shall live in the district he is to canvass. He should be familiar with its territory and the general character of the people. He must be energetic, person of good address, trustworthy, honest and of good habits. They must have at least a primary education and be able to write plainly and with reasonable rapidity. In general, reference will be given to former enumerators if they are at present physically able to perform the duties of the position.

Each person seeking appointment as census enumerator must make a written application to the supervisor for the district of which a resident. His application must be made throughout in the handwriting of the applicant, and must be indorsed by two representative business men of the community in which the applicant resides.

All applicants for appointment as enumerators will be required to take an examination, to be prescribed by the director of the census, to determine their fitness for the work. This examination will be of a practical character, consisting chiefly of the filling out of a sample schedule of population from data furnished, and in the case of enumerators whose work will be in rural districts the filling out of a sample schedule of agriculture.

Each applicant is furnished with an illustrative example of the manner of filling the population schedule and, in the case of rural districts, with a sample of the agricultural schedule to which, in the main, the work of the census enumerators is confined. These forms of schedules are furnished for the information of the applicant and should be studied and preserved for use in connection with the examination referred to in the preceding paragraph.

It will be necessary for each enumerator, before entering upon his duties, to receive a commission, under the hand of the supervisor of the district to which he belongs, and to take and subscribe an oath or affirmation that he will faithfully discharge all the duties required of him under the law.

The census act also provides that an enumerator, after accepting an appointment and qualifying for the work, can not, "without justifiable cause," refuse or neglect to perform the duties of the position; and he will further be required to devote his entire working time to the census work during the period of the enumeration.

The compensation to be paid to enumerators is fixed by the census act, and an allowance of not less than two nor more than four cents for each inhabitant enumerated, and not less than thirty cents for each farm reported, and ten cents for each barn and enclosure containing livestock not on farms, as provided for all subdivisions where the director of the census shall deem such remuneration sufficient. In other subdivisions the director may be allowed, in his discretion, of not more than two dollars per day, in addition, an allowance of not less than one nor more than three cents for each inhabitant enumerated, and not less than fifteen cents for each farm reported, and ten cents for each barn and enclosure containing livestock not on farms, as provided for all subdivisions where the director of the census shall deem such remuneration sufficient.

Attention is also called to the letter of the president, addressed to the secretary of commerce and labor, a copy of which is appended to the statement, concerning the matter of political activity on the part of census enumerators and supervisors. In accordance with this letter any enumerator must sever his connection with any political committee of which he may be a member, before entering on his duties, and must refrain from political activity during his term of employment.

WANTS REFORMATORY.

Town of Huntington Has Available Sites for State Institution.

Efforts to secure the locating of the proposed state reformatory within the borders of Huntington have been in progress for some time at Shelton. The town assembly authorized the locating and establishment of such an institution and it is pointed out that Huntington possesses some peculiar advantages for such an institution. Within a few minutes' ride of the trolley can be found large tracts of some of the finest farm land in the state, perfectly isolated, yet easily accessible. Supplies may be easily secured and transported without extra cost, and all in all the people there believe there are a number of ideal locations for such an institution to be found in that place. What will be the result of the efforts now being made remains to be seen, but some very influential people are impressed with the natural advantages of Huntington for such an institution.

A Decadent Footpad.

In the ancient profession of thievery there are certain immemorial courtesies which no decent practitioners ever forgets. All the great artists from Robin Hood down to Andrew Carnegie, have conformed to them. Nobody who ignored them is entitled to be called a gallant highwayman, a chivalrous burglar, or a polite footpad, as the case may be. In spite of the antiquity of his calling he is a discourteous cad whom no gentleman can countenance and no lady can love. Much as the Oregonians dislike severe censure, it is Driven by the facts to class the San Francisco footpad who held up a young man on the way to tell his sister of his mother's death among the cads. Claude Duval would not have been guilty of such an unseemly act. Nay, he would have lent the boy Black Bess to speed him on his errand. Much less would that prince of highwaymen have slashed the youth with a knife when he found him penniless, as this San Francisco footpad did, to the eternal shame of the guild. He would have bidden the impecunious wayfarer wait in the shadow while he held up some fat street railway magnate, and then, having endowed him with the spoil and his blessing, would have sent him on his errand rejoicing. Is the conduct of this San Francisco footpad an exceptional instance of depravity or has the social malady which afflicts that unhappy town at last infected the lower orders.—Portland Oregonian.
